Seymour Man Appointed Assistant to General Manager Galloway of B. & O. S-W.

WILL NOT MOVE FROM SEYMOUR

Though Headquarters are In Cincinnati.—His Successor.—Division Operator's Office Coming.

F. B. Mitchell of Seymour, who has since Jan. 1, 1911 been trainmaster of the Indiana division of the B. & O. S-W. with headquarters here, has received a substantial promotion in the service having been appointed Assistant Superintendent and assigned to special service. The appointment was announced Thursday by General Superintendent Galloway of Cincinnati and takes effect today. The office has just been created and Mr. Mitchell's duties will be in the nature of an assistant to Mr. Galloway. His headquarters will be in Cincinnati but as he will probably be on the road a considerable part of the time and likes Seymour he will probably not move from here. Before coming to this division he was Assistant Trainmaster of the Ohio division.

The successor to Mr. Mitchell as trainmaster will be C. A. Plimly who has been division operator with headquarters in Cincinnati. He expects to move to this city. His successor will be M. A. McCarthy, chief block dispatcher at Cincinnati.

With the change of officials the division operator's office will be transferred to Seymour which means removal of Mr. McCarthy to this city. He will have offices in the company's building here. By the change this city therefore makes a Hagerty states the train will spend the night in Seymour and a big public meeting will be held. Supt. Christie of Purdue is preparing to send out a large number of notices to farmers along the line inviting them to meet the train and attend the lectures.

SAVED BY LEG

Handcuffed Negro Dived From the Train Near Seymour.

The National Democrat of Jeffersonville says: William Smith, a negro parole violator, being brought back by Field Agent Rafferty to the Indiana Reformatory from Marion, Ia., tried to leap from the train near Seymour although the train was running about 50 miles an hour and he was handcuffed. Rafferty caught his leg as the convict dived through a window and held him until a porter helped him, probably saving his prisoner's life thereby. Smith was sent up from Terre Haute for grand larceny and was paroled in 1909.

UNLESS EXCUSED

Teachers Must Work on Holidays Says Honan.

Attorney General Honan has written a letter to W. B. Bilkerton of Catawa, Ind., in which he holds that when a teacher has signed a contract he is expected to work on legal holidays unless excused. Mr. Bilkerton asked if he might obtain double pay for being forced to work on Lincoln's birthday.

The ruling is of interest in Seymour and Jackson county and throughout the state.

HEAVY DAMAGES WERE AWARDED

Henry Marshall Formerly of Seymour Given $8,000 Verdict Against The B. & O. S-W.

LOST AN ARM WHILE BRAKING

Accident Occurred at Mitchell About a Year Ago.—Signal Was Misunderstood.

Henry Marshall of Mitchell, who formerly lived in Seymour, has won a big victory in his suit for damages against the B. & O. Southwestern. A jury in the circuit court at Paoli awarded him a verdict of $8,000 against the railroad company after a trial in which a strong array of attorneys appeared for both sides. The jury was out only an hour.

The damages were awarded Marshall for the loss of his right arm about a year ago while he was an employee of the road. He was a brakeman and while his train was switching in Mitchell yards he gave a signal for it to go ahead and then stepped behind the cars. The signal was misunderstood and instead of going ahead the engineer backed the train and Marshall was knocked down and his arm crushed off.

He filed suit in the Lawrence county court for $20,000 damages but the case was finally sent to Orange county on a change of venue.

Marshall lived in Seymour at one time and was employed at the Hadley poultry house. He moved from here to Mitchell several years ago and engaged in the poultry business there. Later he began work for the B. & O. He has a wife and several children.

ELECTION OF THE OFFICERS

For the Coming Year By the Eleventh District Missionary Convention.

NEXT YEAR'S MEETING PLACE

Central Christian Church at Columbus Selected.—Program of The Sessions.

The members of the Christian church congregation were agreeably surprised last night at the meeting of the eleventh district missionary convention when the chairman announced that Rev. T. J. Legg was in the house and would make the principal address of the evening in the absence of Rev. W. H. Book of Columbus, who was unable to be here. Rev. Legg aided in reorganizing the Christian church here several years ago and held a meeting here which was the means of helping clear the debt and putting things into good working order.

A hearty welcome was given him by the convention last night. His address dealt with the historical facts relative to the work in the various districts in the state, and gave briefly the list of towns without Christian churches. Rev. Mr. Legg is thoroughly acquainted with Indiana and is one of the strongest workers the denomination has in the field.

Prof. W. C. Morro of Butler College, was present and gave an interesting talk on the religious side of college life.

A large number of delegates are attending the convention from the forty churches of the district. The latter is made up of the counties of Jackson, Decatur, Bartholomew, Brown and Jennings.

The first session of the convention Thursday afternoon was well attended and some excellent addresses were made by Garry L. Cook and W. D. Bartle. Elder Harley Jackson presided.

At the session this morning the convention officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Harley Jackson of Seymour; Vice-president, J. J. Bare of Vallonia; Secretary, George Rader of Seymour; Sunday School Superintendent, M. C. Milligan of Brownstown. The next convention will be held at the Central Christian church at Columbus.

This afternoon Mrs. R. M. Thomas of Greensburg, Mrs. O. M. Griest of Shoals and Mrs. Frank Wells of Indianapolis had charge of the C. W. B. M. session.

Word was received from Marshall T. Reeves of Columbus that if the convention would appoint a district evangelist he will pay $35 a month on the evangelist's salary. Rev. William Chapple of Columbus was appointed.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

Every Business Man Should Attend The Meeting at the City Building.

Immediately following the meeting of the Seymour Improvement Co., a meeting will be held at the City Building this evening for the purpose of planning a reorganization of the Seymour Commercial Club. This club was organized originally in 1901 and was maintained for a few years. It was incorporated for a period of fifty years and the things to be considered tonight will be the election of officers and the consideration of the by-laws as adapted to present needs.

Every man who is interested in the welfare of Seymour should be present this evening and help form plans that will aid in the development of our good city. Seymour has many natural advantages, which can be placed before investors and manufacturers that will aid materially in locating new industries here and give employment to more of our people. There are people continually looking for bettering their locations. Without someone to consider propositions it results in no action being taken to secure them for Seymour. This is one of the best towns of its size in Indiana and there is no reason why it should not advance materially within the next few years. Be sure to attend the meeting tonight and help start the work again.

ARM WAS DRAWN AGAINST SAW

Distressing Accident This Afternoon At D'Heur-Swain Lumber Company's Mill.

LEWIS AUFFENBERG VICTIM

Was Taken to Schneck Hospital. Shock of Accident Was Very Great.

A distressing accident occurred about 1 o'clock this afternoon at the D'Heur-Swain Lumber Company's mill on West Second street and by it Louis Auffenberg, an employee, lost an arm.

Mr. Auffenberg was working at one of the large saws and in some way his coat was caught in the machinery and his left arm was drawn against the saw. The arm was cut off just below the elbow.

The injured man was taken to the Schneck hospital as soon as possible for treatment. The shock of the accident was very great and Mr. Auffenberg's condition is considered serious.

He is 36 years old and his home is on West Brown street. He has a large family.

The wrecking crew was called to Riverville this morning to rerail several cars from train No. 56. They were side swiped and knocked from the tracks by another train.

MANUFACTURER MADE REQUEST

That Much Needed Improvement of Street and Walks Be Made.

ACTION TAKEN BY COUNCIL

New Sewer in Read-Jordan Addition Ordered.—Davison's Address. Other Business.

Henry Kasperlain of the Seymour Chair Company appeared before the council at its meeting Thursday evening and asked that some attention be given to the north end of Indianapolis Avenue, that some kind of walks be provided for and the roadway be put in condition to allow hauling. The latter is made doubly important as the improvement of North Chestnut will close that street as an outlet. The street to the factory is almost impassable and it is hard to reach that section along the avenue without wading through mud and water. Among the employees of the factory are quite a number of women and girls. The people from Woodstock also use this route to town frequently. Mr. Kasperlain did not ask for expensive cement walks or expensive street improvement but rightly asked that some attention be given to conditions there. Misch, Davison and Hodapp were appointed members of a committee to investigate and report at next meeting a plan for improvement of conditions as asked for.

Davison, chairman of the Board of Works, made an address to the council on the subject of the proposed cement concrete street improvements. He stated that he had spent the past few days in Chicago attending the big national show of all kinds of cement work and had studied the various kinds of concrete streets which were exhibited there. After examining the three kinds which are made and talking to builders and city representatives from many sections he had been convinced that the cement concrete streets which are being built in Seymour are the best kind of residence streets. Men from the cold north and northwest states said such streets had stood cold and wear there for a number of years and are in perfect condition yet. These men and those from other sections all stated that the great necessity is to provide against wet and seepy conditions under the street. If this is not done the concrete will crack during hard freezes. Some illustration of this has been seen on North Poplar where proper drainage from the east has not been provided at one point in the street.

A resolution introduced by S. Day was passed for putting in a sewer to relieve conditions in the Read-Jordan addition. It will be a 12-inch sanitary sewer running down the alley in the addition between Pine and Poplar streets. It will extend to alley south of seventh running west and extend along this alley to Pine street where it will join the 15-inch sewer. Property owners affected will pay half the cost of the sewer through the addition. W. R. Day announced that he hoped that this would per-

THE ART OF KINDNESS.

It is the history of kindness which alone makes the world tolerable. If it were not for that, for the effect of kind words, multitudes, spreading, making one happy to another and bringing forth benefits, some thirty, some sixty, some a thousand fold, I should be tempted to think that life is a practical jest.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Your friend or neighbor has failed in some enterprise or slipped a cog somewhere or lost his job. He is hungry for a little sympathy, though too proud to show it.

Your disapproval will only add salt to his wound.

An acquaintance has committed an error of which he is ashamed. He did wrong, but will you help him on or scold him down?

Be big and help him.

By turning a deaf ear and an unsympathetic heart toward your wayward brother or sister you betray your manliness and harden your heart.

God radiates and uplifts; great souls are God-like. Can you fancy a pitiless God who sneers at the human who fails or fails? No more can a good human soul do that—

When all this sad world needs is just the art of being kind.

Love is where most of us miss it—failing in the minor ministries of everyday sympathy. Thoughtfulness, gentleness, an encouraging smile, a word fitly spoken—the kindness of little things is often forgotten in our selfish heedlessness.

This is a good habit: Never let a day pass without making some one happy.

It may be a cheering word to some hard struggler or a smile to a child or an inquiry about a sick friend or a few flowers.

Trifles?

They are expressions of love, and love is the greatest thing in the world.

Troubles of your own? It will help some to lay a kindly hand on the weary shoulder of another. A touch of kindness is like a rubber ball—it bounces back.

Talk happiness. The world is sad enough without your woes. No path is wholly rough.

Look for the places that are smooth and clear.

And speak of these to rest the weary ear of earth so hurt by one continuous strain of human discontent and grief and pain.

PROGRESS AGAINST CANCER.

The public has learned to be a bit slow in accepting at face value the stories that are circulated at irregular intervals concerning recently discovered cancer cures, says the St. Paul Dispatch. There are many scientists of great ability at work trying to discover a means of protecting humanity against the terrible losses inflicted by the cancer scourge. It seems reasonable to expect that a real cure may be effected at any time and for that reason it is easy for those who may not be so very skilled to secure a hearing when they claim to have discovered something worth while. A report has just come from Berlin, however, that seems to warrant more than the ordinary degree of attention. Prof. von Assermann announces that, in cooperation with Drs. Kessler and Michael, he has obtained remarkably successful results in treating mice by injecting into the veins a preparation of cadmium and selenium. He is careful to say it does not claim to have a cure. He does contend he has demonstrated that it is possible to reach a tumor by chemical means through the blood, a thing supposed to be impossible. He says that injections of his solution cured the cancers of the mice.

Clothing for hens is a new idea, but it would be rash to condemn it off-hand. A Colorado woman, it is said, took pity on her chickens, which had molted late in the season, and made them neatly fitting coats and caps of soft flannel in which they strut about apparently comfortable. But this is not all. The flannel-clad hens, so it is gravely asserted, show their gratitude to their mistress by laying eggs every day, just as if the weather were mild instead of chilly. At the present price of eggs, it would not take many to pay for a flannel coat big enough to keep a hen so warm in December that she might ignore the northern winter climate and lay as industriously at Yuletide as in July. Here is a hint for chicken farmers. Let them test it on a small scale and see if it is worth adopting.

Boys and girls of a high school in a Long Island town struck on account of the dismissal of a popular principal and marched the streets in regulation smoker style. This is a mild hint as to the effect of dispensing with discipline and subordination of the former kind in the new system of education in which the idea of self-control is expanded into latitude. Young America needs no incentive for further self-assertion, and many are inclined to think that some old-fashioned ideas about the young idea may be revived with profit.

In Canada an employe of a garage smoked a cigarette over a can of gasoline, with the result that two hundred thousand dollars' worth of property went up in fire. There ought to be special and severe penalties for this specific kind of gross carelessness. In such cases life is jeopardized quite as much as property. In the new crusade for fire prevention careless smokers should have prominent consideration.

Emotional women seldom bring hot-house flowers to the commonplace criminal who is in prison for stealing a cow or picking a pocket. These choice gifts are reserved for the higher class offender who commits a revolting murder.

In Minneapolis a young woman ate hairpins for the purpose of making herself so ill that she might get out of doing housework. A girl like that ought to be permitted to go on the stage. She must have temperament.

A scientist tells us that Eve was not a beautiful woman, but how could Adam tell? Beauty is a matter of comparison, and Eve was leading lady, soubrette and chorus all by herself.

The two Philadelphia maidens who took advantage of leap year and popped the question have demonstrated that the staid old town is awakening from its slumbers.

Albany doctor grafted on a patient's nose which had been knocked from its moorings, and the patient retains all of his old-time beauty. Evidently the doctor nose his business.

The owners of taxicabs in New York are preparing to make money by reducing fares. It can be done anywhere.

The keel of the biggest warship yet has just been laid at Portsmouth, England. There is to be no rest for the German naval architects.

Boston has been experiencing weather cold enough to freeze the sacred codfish.

The days may be growing longer, but what concerns us most is when they will grow warmer.

MOTHER WAS WORRIED

Because Young Daughter Coughed So Much.—What She Did.

Just think how anxious Mrs. William Archer, of Long Branch, N. J., must have been about her 14 year old daughter. She says: "She was very thin, had a bad cough, was nervous and did not sleep well. Vinol has helped her wonderfully. She can sleep all night now without coughing once, in fact her cough is gone. Her appetite is greatly improved and she has gained weight. I wish every mother knew what Vinol will do for delicate children."

Nothing can possibly be more important than the health of children and that is why we earnestly advise the use of Vinol in all cases where a child is weak, pale, run down, has a cough, or poor appetite. We have seen it make so many children strong and rosy that we believe in it.

Children take Vinol eagerly because it tastes good and it puts new strength into their little bodies. We guarantee Vinol to give perfect satisfaction and give back your money if it does not. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

CHAPTER XIX.

Daylight awoke with the familiar parched mouth and lips and throat, took a long drink of water from the pitcher beside his bed, and gathered up the train of thought where he had left it the night before. He reviewed the easement of the financial strain. Things were mending at last. While the going was still rough, the greatest dangers were already past.

His mind moved on to the incident at the corner of the bar of the Parthenon, when the young athlete had turned his hand down. He was no longer stunned by the event, but he was shocked and grieved, as only a strong man can be, at this passing of his strength. He had always looked upon this strength of his as permanent, and here, for years, it had been steadily oozing from him. As he had diagnosed it, he had come in from under the stars to roost in the coops of cities. He had almost forgotten how to walk. He had lifted up his feet and been ridden around in automobiles, cabs and carriages, and electric cars. He had not exercised, and he had dry-rotted his muscles with alcohol. And was it worth it? What did all his money mean after all? Dede was right. It could buy him no more than one bed at a time, and at the same time it had made him the abjectest of slaves. It tied him fast. Which was better? he asked himself. All this was Dede's own thought. It was what she had meant when she prayed he would go broke. He held up his offending right arm. It wasn't the same old arm. Of course she could not love that arm and that body as she had loved the strong, clean arm and body of years before. He didn't like that arm and body himself. A young whippersnapper had been able to take liberties with it. It had gone back on him. He sat up suddenly. No, he had gone back on it! He had gone back on himself. He had gone back on Dede. She was right, a thousand times right, and she had sense enough to know it, sense enough to refuse to marry a money-slave with a whisky-rotted carcass.

He got out of bed and looked at himself in the long mirror on the wardrobe door. He wasn't pretty. The old-time lean cheeks were gone. These were heavy, seeming to hang down by their own weight. He looked for the lines of cruelty Dede had spoken of, and he found them, and he found the harshness in the eyes as well, the eyes that were muddy now after all the cocktails of the night before, and of the months and years before. He looked at the clearly defined pouches that showed under his eyes, and they shocked him. He rolled up the sleeve of his pajamas. No wonder the hammer-thrower had put his hand down. Those weren't muscles. A rising tide of fat had submerged them. He stripped off the pajama coat. Again he was shocked, this time by the bulk of his body. It wasn't pretty. The lean stomach had become a paunch. The rigid muscles of chest and shoulders and abdomen had broken down into rolls of flesh. And this was age. Then there drifted across the field of vision of his mind's eye the old man he had encountered at Glen Ellen, coming up the hillside through the fires of sunset, white-headed and white-bearded, eighty-four, in his hand the pail of foaming milk and in his face all the warm glow and content of the passing summer day. That had been age. "Yes sirree, eighty-four, and spryer than most," he could hear the old man say.

Next he remembered Ferguson, the little man who had scuttled into the road like a rabbit, the one-time managing editor of a great newspaper, who was content to live in the chaparral along with his spring of mountain water and his hand-reared and manured fruit trees. Ferguson had solved a problem. A weakening and an alcoholic, he had run away from the doctors and the chicken-coop of a city, and soaked up health like a thirsty sponge. He sat down suddenly on the bed, startled by the greatness of the idea that had come to him. He did not sit long. His mind, working in its customary way, like a steel trap, canvassed the idea in all its bearings. It was big—bigger than anything he had faced before. And he faced it squarely, picked it up in his two hands and turned it over and around and looked at it. The simplicity of it delighted him. He chuckled over it, reached his decision, and began to dress. Midway in the dressing he stopped in order to use the telephone.

Dede was the first he called up. "Don't come to the office this morning," he said. "I'm coming out to see you for a moment."

He called up others. He ordered his motor-car. To Jones he gave instructions for the forwarding of Bob and Wolf to Glen Ellen. Hegan he surprised by asking him to look up the deed of the Glen Ellen ranch and make out a new one in Dede Mason's name. "Who?" Hegan demanded. "Dede Mason," Daylight replied im-perturbably—"the 'phone man," he indistinct this morning. Dede Mason. Got it?"

Half an hour later he was flying out to Berkeley. And for the first time the big red car halted directly before the house. Dede offered to receive him in the parlor, but he shook his head and nodded toward her rooms.

"In there," he said. "No other place would suit."

As the door closed, his arms went out and around her. Then he stood with his hands on her shoulders and looking down into her face.

"Dede, if I tell you, flat and straight, that I'm going up to live on that ranch at Glen Ellen, that I ain't taking a cent with me, that I'm going to scratch for every bite I eat, and that I ain't going to play any card at the business game again, will you come along with me?"

She gave a glad little cry, and he nestled her in closely. But the next moment she had thrust herself out from him to take old position at arm's length.

"How is this possible? How can you leave your business? Has anything happened?"

"No, nothing's happened yet, but it's going to, blame quick. I've taken your preaching to heart, and I've come to the penitent form. I've taken my last drink. You're marrying a whisky-soak, but your husband won't be that. He's going to grow into another man so quick you won't know him. A couple of months from now, up there in Glen Ellen, you'll wake up some morning and find you've got a perfect stranger in the house with you, and you'll have to get introduced to him all over again. You'll say, 'I'm Mrs. Harnish, who are you?' And I'll say, 'I'm Elam Harnish's younger brother. I've just arrived from Alaska to attend the funeral.' 'What funeral?' you'll say. And I'll say, 'Why the funeral of that good-for-nothing, gambling, whisky-drinking Burning Daylight—the man that died of fatty degeneration of the heart from sitting in night and day at the business game.' 'Yes, ma'am, I'll say, 'he's sure a gone coon, but I've come to take his place and make you happy. And now, ma'am, if you'll allow me, I'll just meander down to the pasture and milk the cow while you're getting breakfast.'"

"But you haven't answered my questions," she reproached him, as she emerged, rosy and radiant, from the embrace that had accompanied the culmination of his narrative.

"Now just what do you want to know?" he asked.

"I want to know how all this is possible. How you are able to leave your business at a time like this? What you meant by saying that something was going to happen quickly?"

"Let's go and get married," he urged, all the whimsicality of his utterance duplicated in his eyes. "I've been working like forty horses ever since this blamed panic set in, and all the time some of those ideas you'd given me were getting ready to sprout. Well, they sprouted this morning, that's all. I knew I wanted to ride in the hills with you just about thirty million times more than I wanted to go to the office. And I knew all the time it was impossible. And why? Because of the office. The office wouldn't let me. And then I made up my mind that I was to the dividing of the ways. One way led to the office. The other way led to Berkeley. And I took the Berkeley road. I'm never going to set foot in the office again. That's all gone, finished, over and done with, and I'm letting it slide clean to smash and then some. I'm wiping the slate clean. I'm letting it all go smash. When them thirty million dollars stood up to my face and said I couldn't go out with you in the hills today, I knew the time had come for me to put my foot down. And I'm putting it down. I've got you, and my strength to work for you, and that little ranch in Sonoma. That's all I want, and that's all I'm going to save out, along with Bob and Wolf, a suit case and a hundred and forty hair brushes. All the rest goes, and good riddance. It's that much junk."

with Bob and Wolf, a suit case and a hundred and forty hair brushes. All the rest goes, and good riddance. It's that much junk."

A knock at the door interrupted him, and he was left to stare delightedly at the Crouched Venus and on around the room at Dede's dainty possessions, while she answered the telephone.

"It is Mr. Hegan," she said, on returning. "He is holding the line. He says it is important."

Daylight shook his head and smiled. "Please tell Mr. Hegan to hang up. I'm done with the office and I don't want to hear anything about anything."

A minute later she was back again. "He refuses to hang up. He told me to tell you that Unwin is in the office now, waiting to see you, and Harrison, too. Mr. Hegan said that Grimshaw and Hodgkins are in trouble. That it looks as if they are going to break. And he said something about protection."

It was startling information. Both Unwin and Harrison represented big banking corporations, and Daylight knew that if the house of Grimshaw and Hodgkins went it would precipitate a number of failures and start a flurry of serious dimensions. But Daylight smiled, and shook his head.

He caught her by the hand and drew her to him.

"You let Hegan hang on to that line till he's tired. We can't be wasting a second on him on a day like this."

"But I know something of the fight you have been making," Dede contended. "If you stop now, all the work you have done, everything, will be destroyed. You have no right to do it. You can't do it."

Daylight was obdurate. He shook his head and smiled tantalizingly.

"Nothing will be destroyed, Dede, nothing. You don't understand this business game. It's done on paper. All I stand for is paper. I've got the paper for thousands of acres of land. All right. Burn up the paper, and burn me along with it. The land remains, don't it? Nothing is going to be lost—not one pile out of the docks, not one railroad spike, not one ounce of steam out of the gauge of a ferry-boat. The cars will go on running, whether I hold the paper or somebody else holds it."

By this time Hegan had arrived in an automobile. The honk of it came in through the open window, and they saw it stop alongside the big red machine. In the car were Unwin and Harrison, while Jones sat with the chauffeur.

"I'll see Hegan," Daylight told Dede. "There's no need for the rest. They can wait in the machine."

"Is he drunk?" Hegan whispered to Dede at the door.

She shook her head and showed him in.

"Good morning, Larry," was Daylight's greeting. "Sit down and rest your feet. You sure seem to be in a flutter."

"I am," the little Irishman snapped back. "Grimshaw and Hodgkins are going to smash if something isn't done quick. Why didn't you come to the office? What are you going to do about it?"

"Nothing," Daylight drawled lazily. "Except let them smash, I guess. I've had no dealings with Grimshaw and Hodgkins. I don't owe them anything. Besides, I'm going to smash myself. Look here, Larry, you know me. You know when I make up my mind I mean it. Well, I've sure made up my mind. I'm letting go of it as fast as I can, and a smash is the quickest way to let go. All you've got to do is to protect yourself and all our friends. Now you listen to me while I tell you what to do. Everything is in good shape to do it. Nobody must get hurt. Everybody that stood by me must come through without damage. All the back wages and salaries must be paid pronto. All the money I've switched away from the water company, the street cars, and the ferries must be switched back. And you won't get hurt yourself none. Every company you got stock in will come through—"

"What have you done to him?" Hegan snarled at Dede.

"Hold on there, Larry." For the first time Daylight's voice was sharp, while all the old lines of cruelty in his face stood forth. "Miss Mason is going to be my wife, and while I don't mind your talking to her all you want, you've got to use a different tone of voice or you'll be heading for a hospital, which will sure be an unexpected sort of smash. And let me tell you one other thing. This is all my doing. She says I'm crazy, too."

Dede stepped forward where she confronted the two men.

"Wait," she said. "I want to say something. Elam, if you do this insane thing, I won't marry you. I refuse to marry you."

"I'll take my chance on that," Daylight said. "And now, Larry, you'd better be going. I'll be at the hotel in a little while, and since I'm not going to step into the office again, bring all papers to sign and the rest over to my rooms. And you can get me on the 'phone there any time. This smash is going through. Savvee? I'm quit and done."

He turned to Dede as soon as Hegan was gone, and took her by the hand.

"And now, little woman, you needn't come to the office any more. Consider yourself discharged."

"I'd cry, if I thought it would do any good," she threatened.

"In which case I reckon I'd have to hold you in my arms some more and sort of soothe you down," he threatened back.

As he stood at the top of the steps, leaving, she said:—

"You needn't send those men. There will be no packing, because I am not going to marry you."

"I'm not a bit scared," he answered, and went down the steps.

Sunday School Lesson

MARCH 3, 1912.

CALL OF THE FIRST DISCIPLES. Mark 1: 14-28; Luke 5:1-11.

GOLDEN TEXT:—The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest.—Matt. 9:37, 38.

According to the harmony of the gospels, it would seem that Jesus returned to where John was preaching, and as he cried on two different days, "Behold the Lamb of God!" two of John's disciples, Andrew and probably John, the brother of James, followed Jesus and spent some time with Him one day, after which Andrew found his brother, Simon, and brought him to Jesus, and the inference is that John brought his brother James. Then Jesus went into Galilee to Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter, and called Philip to follow Him. After this Philip brought Nathanael, and thus we see the first six disciples according to John 1:29-51. They seem to have received several calls before they left all to follow Him fully. The lesson today indicates a call to Andrew and Peter as they were casting a net into the sea, and to James and John as they were in the ship with their father mending their nets. The account of this incident is found in Matt. iv. 18-22, as well as in our lesson verses from Mark. The incident of Luke v. 1-11, seems to have been wholly different and at a different time. At that time He used Simon's boat as a pulpit and then filled both his boat and that of his partners, James and John, with fishes. We must ever distinguish between Christians and disciples. A Christian is one who truly receives Jesus Christ as his Saviour and thus becomes a child of God, justified freely by His grace (John 1, 12; Rom. iii, 24; v. 1). There are no degrees in salvation, for all who are in Christ are equally saved by His precious blood. He obtained eternal redemption for all, and all who receive the gift of God, which is eternal life, have it without money or works of any kind on their part. Discipleship follows, and as it is so costly to the believer few are willing to pay the price; hence the whole-hearted disciples are comparatively few, and there are many degrees in discipleship and many calls to obtain the few. See Luke xiv. 26, 27, 33; Matt. x. 37, 38; xvi. 24. Having saved us fully, freely and forever, He desires us to be ever, only, all for Himself, His own special property, that He may live His life in us and reveal Himself through us to the world (Ps. iv. 3; Tit. ii. 14, R. V.; II Thess. iv. 10, 11). The ministry of John the Baptist seems to have been very brief, and, having been imprisoned because hated by a wicked woman, he was in due time beheaded, and the Lord Jesus suffered it to be so, although He said that no greater was ever born of woman (Matt. xi, 11). We cannot understand, but we must have unbounded confidence in God.

After John was put in prison Jesus began to preach the gospel of the kingdom of God, urging men to repent and believe the gospel (verses 14, 15). Both John and Jesus and also the twelve preached that the kingdom was at hand, the kingdom plainly foretold by all the prophets, a kingdom of peace and righteousness under a righteous king, before whom all kings will fall down and whom all nations will serve. Then shall the nations learn war no more, and from a righteous Israel at the center, with Jerusalem as the throne of the Lord, the earth will soon be filled with the glory of the Lord (Isa. xxxii. 1, 17; ii. 4; Jer. iii, 17; Ps. lxxii, 11). Truly, it is worth while to follow such a leader through all trials to such a kingdom and to walk worthy of it and Him (Matt. xvi, 27; I Thess. ii, 12; I Pet. v. 10). We may so know Him as to be blind and deaf to all but His face and His voice, and thus He will make us fishers of men to complete His elect church during this age of the postponement of the kingdom, because they said, "We have no king but Caesar." "We will not have this man to reign over us."

In the latter part of our lesson we find Him in the synagogue in Capernaum on the Sabbath day and so teaching that all were astonished at His doctrine, for He taught with authority. The words were not His, but His Father's, for He said only what the Father told Him to say (John xii, 49; xiv, 10; xvii, 8). Power belongeth unto God, and where the word of a king is there is power (Ps. lxxii, 12 (Eccl. viii, 4). On the night of His arrest His two words "I am" sent the Roman soldiers to the ground, for it was the same voice which said, "Let there be light" (Gen. i. 3). A demon possessed man was in the synagogue, and the evil spirit knew Him and called Him Jesus of Nazareth, the Holy One of God (verse 24), for the demons believe and tremble (Jas. ii, 19). It is not believing about Jesus Christ that saves, else all demons might be saved, but it is submission to Him as God and the reception of Him as the Saviour of sinners. See how the demons confess what many intelligent religious people today refuse to believe—that Jesus is God. They also believe in a place of torment into which

He will cast them at the appointed time (Matt. viii, 29). This, too, is ridiculed by many, but as truly as this demon obeyed the voice of Jesus and came out of the man so will all people obey Him to whom He will say, "Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels" (Matt. xxv, 41).

THE LESSON QUIZ.

The Call of the First Disciples. Mark 1:14-28; Luke v:1-11.

Golden Text—The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that he will send forth laborers into his harvest. Matt. ix:37-38.

(1) Verses 14-15—How do you understand the phrase, "preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God?"

(2) What is repentance?

(3) If a man is truly penitent does he necessarily believe the gospel? Why or why not?

(4) Verses 16-18—Take the two occupations, literal fishermen and "fishers of men," and say which would be the more honorable calling to one whom God had called to be a literal fisherman.

(5) Did Jesus invite or command them to follow him?

(6) How do you account for the strange fact that these two men so promptly forsook their nets and followed him?

(7) Verses 19-20—Why did Jesus have a preference for unlearned fishermen rather than scholars to become his chief apostles?

(8) Why is it probable that Jesus knew these men in advance and selected them for their fitness for the work?

(9) Does God ever call any man to a work for which he is not fitted? Give your reasons.

(10) Verses 21-22—Is every man under obligation to keep the Sabbath day and to do some good on that day, as Jesus did? Give your reasons.

(11) Will any preacher who knows the mind of God astonish his hearers as Jesus did?

(12) Verses 23-28—What proof is there that today a very bad man, possessed with the worst devil we know, may by coming to Jesus be suddenly made a very good man?

(13) Luke v:1-3—Should all true preachers be as popular and draw crowds like Jesus did at this time? Why or why not?

(14) There are thousands of people who are sick and at different resorts never attend any place of worship.

ship. Why is it the duty of the modern church to send the gospel to them where they are?

(15) Verses 4-7—What reason is there to think that God takes as much interest in our secular business as Jesus did in the business of Peter?

(16) Do all those who get God's directions on their business matters obtain from him reliable information as to where or how success may be achieved? Why or why not?

(17) Why should our past business failure be no bar to our faith concerning God's present business directions?

(18) Verses 8-9—How do you account for it that this great business success made Peter see his sins?

(19) Do phenomenal business blessings increase or decrease a good man's humility?

(20) Verse 11—When is it right and when wrong for a Christian to give up his secular business and devote himself wholly to Christian work? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIR!

A Few Applications of a Simple Remedy Will Bring Back the Natural Color.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying which is, to a great extent, true, if steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is a necessary sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when hair seems to be lifeless or dead, so good reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "tea" which our grandparents used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur scientifically compounded with later covered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean, wholesome and perfectly harmless. refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded gray hair to its natural color.

Don't delay another minute. Using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur once and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Andrews Drug Co.

EASY AND SURE WAY TO CURE COLD!

Don't Neglect a Cold, Stop in the Sneezing Stage. Use Ely's Cream Balm.

A cold generally attacks the weakest part, affecting the eyes and ears in some and producing nasal catarrh and throat troubles in others. A cold is due to an inflammation of the membrane lining the passages, and may be promptly cured by a little Ely's Cream Balm, which immediately relieves the inflammation and all distressing symptoms, such as sneezing, coughing, running at the nose and eye soreness, sore throat, fever and headache. One reason why this pure, antiseptic Balm acts so quickly is because it is applied directly to the tender, sore surface.

Even in severe, chronic cases of catarrh Ely's Cream Balm never fails to quickly and effectually check the poisonous charge which clogs the head and throat, causing the disgusting hawking, spitting and blowing of the nose. This remedy, only drives out the rottenness, but also strengthens the weakened and disorganized membranes, thus ending catarrh for time.

Catarrh is a filthy, disgusting condition, and it is another day, another bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, and the cure is at hand.

S.S.S. THE ONLY REMEDY FOR BLOOD POISON

S. S. S. is the one and only reliable and certain cure for Contagious Blood Poison. This claim is not based on the treatment of a few cases of the disease, here and there, but its success extends over a period of more than forty years, during which time thousands upon thousands have found a cure by the use of this great vegetable remedy. S. S. S. is first of all, an absolutely perfect blood purifier, able to go down into the blood and remove every particle of the virus of Contagious Blood Poison. It cleanses and purifies the circulation, and in this way removes the cause of the trouble. Then nature, assisted by a rich, healthy blood supply, quickly renovates and renews the system, while the symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, skin eruptions, discolored blotches, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc., disappear, leaving the body entirely free from the effects of this insidious poison. When S. S. S. has thoroughly cleansed and purified the circulation there is no danger of any future outbreak—the blood is pure and the cause of the disease entirely removed. Home Treatment Book containing many valuable and helpful suggestions for those who are curing themselves with S. S. S., and any medical advice desired, sent free to all who write.

"Princess Pat" Hat

Photographed by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

The popular Princess Patricia of Connaught's visit to New York is responsible for this beautiful creation of the milliner's art. It is trimmed with blue changeable silk, with two styles of lace, black net, white embroidered dot and white mallonette. Blush roses, buds and leaves are gracefully punched through the lace.

SHOE AND GLOVE FASHIONS SPRING STYLES ALREADY OUT

Black and White is the Combination for Both Articles of Apparel Just Now.

Entirely aside from this question of mourning every one knows that the combination of black and white is being featured this season more than any other. Still it is a surprise to most fashion observers to discover that even the realm of shoes is beginning to show this combination.

Some of the smartest of the new low-cut shoes have white uppers, but shiny black heels and a mere line of black kid about the top.

An ultra smart model has the vamp of soft-finish black and the uppers—side and back—of white.

Black buttons on high white shoes replace the pretty crystal buttons in some instances. Black bows are favored on all white shoes of the "pump" or low Oxford type.

The black heel will be seen on some of the white canvas and buckram shoes in place of the tan or white covered heel.

Black stockings may be worn with white shoes, or white stockings with black ones.

Gloves show the same inevitable combination. Some long gloves of white kid have narrow diamond-shaped insets of black near the elbow and long black gloves reverse the order by having insets of white.

FRINGE OF STRAW.

The hat in the drawing is one of the new things. Cut away from the front, it flares wider and wider at the back, like a long-herman's sou'wester, or a woman's oldskin. This hat is made of chip in natural color with a wide band of velvet which is edged top and bottom with straw fringe.

Tendency in Skirts.

The skirts to suits are frequently made with a tunic effect, or a side opening, says the Dry Goods Economist. Sometimes both sides are trimmed, while in others only the left side. The slashed effect, with simulated underpetticoat, is also excellent, and frequently the slashing is made with an underskirt of self material, but laid in inverted plaits so as to give a little more fullness in walking. While there seems to be a slight tendency toward a little more fullness in the skirts, the general effect is one of narrowness, and buyers are still asking for skirts that measure from two to two and one-half yards.

Some Useful Hints for the Girl Who Sews

Girls who have been taking domestic science courses at fashionable boarding schools declare that to get along without a variety of dainty aprons is an impossibility, especially if the embryo housekeeper wishes to preserve the fronts of her frocks from spots.

One girl who sews almost as well as she cooks is making several aprons of plain lawn cut into half ovals, scalloped all round with a color and embroidered with washable floss in outline or shadow stitch. By this means she expects to have luncheon pinafores to accord with every house frock—white embroidered with pale blue; pink, mauve or yellow and dark blue; green and brown relieved with white.

Charming little aprons of half oval, half round, diamond or oblong shape are to be made of finest nainsook, scalloped all round and hand embroidered with white in imitation of the work done in the Madeira Islands.

All of the ruffle bordered aprons are fascinating, particularly the round ones which have bowknot and leaf designs embroidered on the lower curve and girdle belts which fit firmly, have embroidered fronts and tie in a little bowknot at the back. The same model is pretty when the hand embroidery and ruffle are omitted and the hemstitched edge is finished with an inch wide frill of Valenciennes or Cluny lace.

Bretelle aprons are always coquettish and nearly always become a slender, girlish figure, but they are more difficult to make than pinafores, because the center panel with its square little bib should be carefully curved to fit into the figure at the waist line and on to it should be attached the narrower side panels, which are shaped above the waist into straps crossing the shoulders and then across the top of the back, where they are joined, so that the apron may be adjusted by drawing the bretelle portion over the head and then securing it about the waist with pink, blue or white satin ribbon sashes.

Nearly all of the bretelle aprons have cunning little hip pockets headed with fine muslin embroidery or lace edging to match the bordering of the pinafore, bib and shoulders, and if a girl wishes to make this sort of luncheon apron exceptionally elaborate she may have the bretelles entirely of all over lace and let them run into narrow panels from the waist to the lower edge.

Practical aprons, meaning the sort which are to be put on over the frock when preparing salad dressing and really messy concoctions, are made of striped galatea, percale, gingham or madras, and are put on as easily as an ulster, for they fasten with flat buttons down the left front from shoulder to hem, have big sewed in sleeves with band cuffs and a deep patch pocket on each hip. To make one take as a model any narrow skirted, one piece house frock which closes in front, allowing, however, for slightly wider seams and wider shoulders, so that the garment will go over even a velvet frock if desired.

It has been wisely said that whoever has once mastered the art of the simpler forms of Irish crochet work has at command an endless variety of ways in which to utilize the product of the tiny steel hook. Above all, the roses of fine imported Irish lace thread can be applied in so many dainty and original ways that the girl of wisdom finds them an invaluable resource when designing for herself those small accessories which give the keynote of a costume.

For articles of fine linen or of any wash material the roses of the Irish thread are, naturally, the sort to use. But on silk or cloth those crocheted from a twisted silk made charming and unique variants from passementerie. A girl who loves to experiment with such useful arts has just finished for herself a little girdle which is the admiration of all who see it. The foundation at the back is a shaped piece of crinoline or some such stiffened lining about eight inches wide. This is covered with the white crepe de chine of which the girdle is made and trimmed with "up and down" rows of white silk roses. To each end of the shaped back section the soft front pieces of the girdle are shirred, and these are long enough to join in a graceful knot in front and to fall sash-like almost to the edge of the dress skirt, where they are finished with a triplet of slaken crocheted blossoms apiece, from the center of each of which hangs a tassel of the same white silk.

This same girl has crocheted more elaborate motifs of pale rose silk for her sister's pet dancing frock of the same shade and a set of handsome black silk—unlike anything to be found in the shops—for a well beloved aunt, whose dinner gown they will shortly adorn most attractively.

Gloves Are Larger.

Golf, tennis and other athletic exercises have caused the hands of girls and women to grow larger than formerly. Despite that fact they still wear the same size gloves. The reason was explained the other day by a dealer in women's gloves. He said that gloves were made to deceive not so much the wearer as the persons who looked at them. The gloves are made in so-called "full sizes," and when a woman asks for a 5½ glove, knowing that her hand is too large to get in it the saleswoman invariably hands her out a 5½ glove, and it always fits. The extra sizes have been made to please the women and, perhaps, to get their trade. Though young girls who play golf, and who have rather large hands, gloat in the fact that they wear a No. 7 glove, they usually long for smaller sized gloves when they get older, and when they inquire for them in the glove shop they invariably get them.

IN VOGUE.

Plain, flat revers will be a predominating feature in spring suits.

Taffetas will be used a great deal in millinery during the coming season. Draped toques of satin and changeable taffetas are extremely fashionable.

The liking for glowing red tones is evidenced in the newest gowns from Paris.

Pearl decorations have a wonderful popularity; they "belong" everywhere.

First hats for spring are either small and close or large and high trimmed.

There is a new cutaway coat, 36 inches long, single breasted, perfectly plain sleeves and very snug in fit.

There is a new sleeveless coat with a cape back crossing in front like a fichu. Puffings and ruchings of taffeta are used on frocks or serge.

Fichus continue to be fashionable. Tulle either plain or fringed, is the favorite material for making these pretty, cloud-like trimmings. They are used frequently to trim negligees of crepe de chine or soft satin.

For Baby's Pillow

This pretty word embroidered on a sheer linen cover will make a dainty pillow for the baby. The flowers should be worked solid and the stems in the over and over stitch, very closely and evenly done. Mercerized cotton No. 30 will be suitable.

Designs in Soft Caps

TO the astonishment of some of us and the delight of all, American women are developing a liking for soft caps, most of them for indoor wear. The day now begins with the breakfast cap of sheer silk, over-draped with net or lace and trimmed with ribbons and little flowers, and ends with the theater cap of cloth-of-gold or silver, jeweled and feathered. There are all sorts of gradations in material and design.

For the street, made caps of beaver cloth, velvet satin, plush, many of them fur-trimmed, are fascinating from the standpoint of becomingness and most comfortable for winter wear. At present, at least four caps are required for wear during each 24 hours. The fresh, dainty breakfast cap, the cap for out-of-doors, the sparkling evening cap and the simple and useful sleeping cap. Besides these, there are sweeping caps, plain and easily laundered, which are necessities and not luxuries, and occasion comes for their use.

Most breakfast or morning caps are made with a soft crown of liberty silk over which is draped either net or lace, and a ruffle of lace which makes the frill about the face and neck. All the support such a cap needs is a circle of fine shirring or ribbon wire. The crown is a plaque of silk, overlaid with lace, cut in a circle 18 inches in diameter. This is gathered about the edge and sewed to the wire, or laid in a narrow hem, through which the wire is thrust. The frill of lace is sewed to the wire and the cap finished with a collar and bows of ribbon. Sometimes the frill is turned back across the front, hanging over the ears and neck. Again, the frill at the front is omitted, and the cap finished with a flat band of ribbon extending across the forehead to the ears. Narrow ribbons from No. 1½ to No. 5 are used in rosettes and finished with long hanging loops.

EXERCISE ADDS TO CHARM

Thing for Women to Keep in Mind Is the Necessity for Proper Selection.

It is curious to find that, with all the modern athleticism of girls and their fervid devotion to outdoor sports, they still cannot compete (except at tennis) with the more stolid and muscular male.

At dancing, to be sure, which is nowadays a high form of athleticism, the premiere danseuse not only competes with but outvies the particular youth with whom she gyrates and bounds, but dancing, after all, is more an affair of long practice than of actual muscular strength. The most exquisite dancer of the present time declares that athletics need not make women ungraceful, as so many people fear they do. She protests that the more she dances the more graceful she can make herself, which is easy to believe.

All her movements, however, are on strictly esthetic lines, which tend to make the body supple and beautiful.

The danger to feminine attractions lies in games like hockey and golf, in which the most odd postures must be assumed in order to succeed at all. On a horse a woman can look perfectly graceful and yet perform much the same deeds of prowess as a man.

The prudent girl should choose carefully the kind of exercise which will not rob her of her feminine charm, though it is probable that the woman of the future will be built on robust lines, and that the young man of her period will not fail to find her adorable.

Hat Ornaments.

One of the practical and universally becoming trimmings being put on to straw hats for the south are the wing, plume or aigrette-like ornaments made of shadow lace, tulle or other gauze. While these hat trimmings are usually simple in number, a single ornament such as the ones mentioned being as much as is needed, the size of the ornaments is often very large. These made feather arrangements admit of a great variety of shapes and effects.

Not all the caps have full crowns, although all (so far) are soft. A straight length of goods is gathered at each end, edged with lace and adjusted flat to the hair. The lace is often wired with a very fine silk-covered wire, which holds it out about the face. Such a cap is shown in the picture given here. Such simple headwear is easily made at home and never was anything more worth while. The dainty caps for morning wear, with gay ribbons and little flowers, are alluring and pretty enough to create cheerfulness, even if one wakes with a "morning after" sensation. The cover the hair completely, so that need not be dressed before breakfast. With a pretty morning jacket and a cap, the day is well begun.

Nearly all caps for evening are made of gold or silver net and lace with or without a silk lining. Pearls and mock jewels, little hand-roses and specially designed feathers are used, with ribbon in their decoration. They are exquisite examples of headwear, wonderfully becoming to their wearers and in no one's Oriental turbans of white tulle, parently wound about the head and decorated at the front with an upstanding coquade and a cabochon. All in pure white, finished with sparkling rhinestones are the most impressive of numerous soft caps which are for evening wear.

Sweeping caps are made of printed handkerchiefs and edged about the head with a string, so that they are easily put on and off for laundering. Night caps, simple, but of sheer mull and lingerie laces. The hair is improved by keeping it covered with such light head coverings. But it is not the practical side of these soft caps which makes the strongest appeal to women. It is their prettiness and becomingness. They are utterly feminine.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

PRETTY THEATER WAIST.

This attractive waist is of light green marquisette of chiffon cloth with kimono sleeves. It is trimmed with bands of ecru lace or embroidery and ornamented in front with ribbons and cord to match this embroidery.

The under sleeves or cuffs are of white lace.

Gliding Laces.

One clever woman who appreciates artistic touches on her gowns and hats discovered while gliding little fancy things for Christmas that laces are made very beautiful by applying to them a coat of gilt paint.

She experimented at first with old bits of lace, and found the result so satisfactory that some yards of coarse imitation Irish lace were glided and used as trimming on an evening gown.

To do gliding, lay the lace perfectly flat over a clean piece of blotting paper and apply the gilt with a brush.

Let one side dry, turn and repeat the process on the other side. If necessary, apply two coats of paint.

Silver and copper can be applied in the same way. Lace treated thus is very for all sorts of fancy work, besides trimming for gowns and hats.

GOING TO FIGHT MINE STRIKERS

British Government Seeking a Way Out of Trouble.

MAY TAKE OVER THE MINES

As a last resort, in order to save the country from complete industrial paralysis, Government Ownership of the Great Collieries of England May be resorted to.—Biggest Strike in History Now in Progress.

London, March 1.—All the underground workers in England, Wales and Scotland, except a comparative few who were permitted to remain and work for the safety of the pits, ceased work at midnight last night, and the great coal strike is on. Over a million men were affected, and this number is being augmented daily through the closing of industries which are dependent on the fuel supply for their existence.

It is expected that if the strike is continued for three weeks 500,000 men will be thrown out of work. It is impossible to estimate the multitude that will be ultimately affected, but it is so large that it is certain to bring a general paralysis of British trade.

Although the strike is really in progress, the negotiations are not at an end, and Premier Asquith is expected to announce drastic action by parliament if the situation is not changed. The government is determined by all means in its power to prevent a paralysis of industry.

Mr. Asquith in making an appeal for a settlement to the miners' federation, declared that if the government's recognition of the minimum wage principle did not bring about an agreement between the disputants the government would secure it by other means. This is a hint of an intention to pass a bill fixing a minimum wage legally. If such action fails to relieve the situation the government is prepared to go still farther, perhaps to the extent of taking over and operating the mines.

Mr. Asquith in his speech to the miners' federation was emphatic in indicating that the ministry would refuse to let the strike proceed. The collieries, he said, were the life-blood of the country's industry and in the confusion of mining lay the very root not only of its prosperity, but of its existence. "We," he said, "are now faced with a warfare which will paralyze all the other industries of the country."

The miners are jubilant over the recognition by the government wage principle. They have funds enough in their treasury to pay every employee now out. They intend to give ten shillings ($2.50) per week to every miner and smaller amounts to unskilled men and boys. The money in the treasury will last at least a month.

Replying to a question by Keir Hardie, labor member of parliament, in the house, Reginald McKenna, the home secretary, said troops would be sent to the collieries only at the request of magistrates. The government, he said, was prepared to respond to all such calls. It had been distributing troops ostensibly for maneuvers to the vicinity of the principal points where trouble was due.

GIVES THE REASON

Governor Dix Explains Why He Didn't Pardon Brandt.

New York, March 1.—Governor Dix has explained in a formal statement why he declined to pardon Folke E. Brandt. Brandt's own application for pardon, says the governor, was based on statements reflecting upon the honor of a woman, mentioned by name, who is a member of Mortimer L. Schiff's household. Mr. Dix emphasizes the point that the pardon application was made by Brandt and that the prisoner, seeking to make a case for himself, was guilty of a crime more abhorrent than that for which he was convicted—false accusations against the purity of a woman.

The governor says that while frankly and deliberately he refused clemency for the reason that Brandt in his efforts to get a pardon had not scrupled to attack the honor of a woman and to invade the sanctity of a home, he could not, in addition, escape from the conclusion that Brandt was actually a burglar and that Brandt's conviction and sentence were proper and legal.

A WARNING TO MANY.

Some Interesting Facts Regarding Health Statistics.

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's disease which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in 1910, in the state of New York alone. Therefore it behooves us to pay more attention to the health of these most important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of cures.

If you feel that your kidneys require attention, and wish a sample bottle, write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and they will gladly forward it to you absolutely free, by mail.

Swamp-Root is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c. and $1.00.

Egyptian Archaeology.

The British School of Archaeology in Egypt, one of the most important organizations in this realm of research, aims in the coming season to prosecute its explorations in the two great centers of early civilization—Memphis, the historic capital, and Heliopolis, the prehistoric capital.

The latter is more bound up with the earlier Hebrew narratives in the book of Genesis than any other city in Egypt, and as two parts of it already show remains of the earliest dynasties, there seems to be some prospect of at last reaching back to the prehistoric kingdom and revealing the development of civilization in its earliest forms.

At Memphis the school has hired the site of one of the large granite pylons of the metropolitan temple as a center for work, and other labors will be attempted which will extend over a generation or more.

Many Driven From Home.

Every year, in many parts of the country, thousands are driven from their homes by coughs and lung diseases. Friends and business are left behind for other climates, but this is costly and not always sure. A better way—the way of multitudes—is to use Dr. King's New Discovery and cure yourself at home. Stay right there, with your friends, and take this safe medicine. Throat and lung troubles find quick relief and health returns. Its help in coughs, colds, croup, whooping-cough and sore throat is a positive blessing.

RANDALL F. DAVIDSON

Archbishop of Canterbury Orders Prayers For Cessation of Strike.

London, March 1.—The anxiety of the country over the strike situation was fully attested by special prayers issued by the archbishop of Canterbury to be recited in all the parishes throughout the United Kingdom. The prayer follows:

"Oh, God, who art father of all and who alone makes men to be of one mind in an hour, we beseech Thee at this time of strife and unrest to grant to us by the inspiration of Thy holy spirit a fuller realization of our brotherhood of man with man in Thee, to allay danger and bitterness and to deepen in us the sense of truth and equity in our dealings one with another, for the sake of Thy son, our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen."

THESE BOYS OWNED A GUN IN PARTNERSHIP

In Deciding Who Should Carry It One Is Slain.

Carthage, Ind., March 1.—Howard McDaniel, aged thirteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al McDaniel, was instantly killed while scuffling with Roy Linscott, aged fifteen, over a partnership revolver.

The two boys were on their way from school when the accident occurred. The revolver, a 38-caliber, was owned jointly by them, and it had been carried by young Linscott all day. McDaniel, thinking it was his time to carry the gun, asked for it. He said his friend refused him and the scuffle started. Linscott accidentally pulled the trigger, the bullet entering McDaniel's body under the left collar bone and passing out under the left shoulder blade.

Carl Walker, aged fifteen, was the only witness to the accident, and he called some men in an elevator. When they arrived McDaniel was dead.

MUTINY RIFE IN CHINA'S CAPITAL

Mutinuous Soldiers Indulge In An Orgy of Plunder.

TORCH FOLLOWS THE LOOTING

Starting Out by Burning Their Barracks, 2,000 Discontented Capital Guards Arm Themselves and Enter Upon a Systematic Pillage of Peking's Richer Shops, Burning and Slaying as They Went.

Peking, March 1.—The greater portion of the Tartar city has been destroyed, and it is impossible at the moment to make any prediction as to where the flames will stop. Ten great fires are raging in the northern section of the city, and they are spreading. The shooting is lessening, the mutineers having apparently used up most of their ammunition. They are now leaving the city with their horses laden with loot, apparently content after their orgy of violence and plunder.

The soldiers, armed with rifles and bayonets, each with about 100 rounds of ammunition, started out by burning their barracks. They then ransacked the shops. The ones they liked best were those of the goldsmiths, silver-smiths, pawnbrokers and art stores. When the shopkeepers were compliant and made no resistance they were unharmed, but anyone who made a fight was ruthlessly shot down or bayoneted. Many of the owners of shops escaped to the roofs while the soldiers were battering down the doors of their stores. The plunder was hastily and roughly bundled into blankets and baskets. Many police and coolies joined the soldiers in the plundering.

So far as can be learned no foreigners were hurt, though some had narrow escapes from flying bullets. Early in the rioting the legations sent out patrols to escort all foreigners to the legation quarters. It was thought at one time that the mutineers contemplated an attack on the legations. Bullets whistled over some of them and several dropped harmlessly in the American compound. The republican delegates from Nanking are among the refugees in the legation quarter.

The mutineers numbered about two thousand. Their discontent is variously ascribed to the fact that they have not been paid and to the order compelling them to cut off their queues. The outbreak began near the Chinese foreign office. The officials rushed into President Yuan Shih Kai's office shouting, "Your excellency, save yourself!" Yuan, without moving a muscle, replied, "I will stay around." There was more firing beneath Yuan's window, but apparently there was no attempt to attack the president. The loyal troops shot down many of the looters, but the Manchu police held aloof throughout except when they joined the rioters. The American legation quarter is thoroughly prepared to resist any possible attack.

The richest parts of the city were sacked and there was immense and wanton destruction. The happenings were a repetition on a far greater scale of the experiences of other cities during the rebellion. The loss by fire and destruction of property in addition to the looting is incalculable. The soldiers sacked the town of Yungpingfu two days ago.

GETTING AT FACTS

More Interesting Testimony About the Express Companies.

Washington, March 1.—In the investigation which the interstate commerce commission is making into the rates, rules and regulations of the express companies of the country, interesting testimony as to stock ownership between express companies and railroads was brought out. While W. A. Worthington, assistant director of maintenance and operation for the Union and Southern Pacific systems, was on the stand he was questioned by Attorney Frank Lyon, the commission's counsel, as to a twenty-year contract entered into between the Southern Pacific and the Wells Fargo company in 1893. Under Mr. Lyon's questioning it developed that the express company was willing to pay the Southern Pacific 55 per cent of its receipts, but the railroad demanded and received 40 per cent and in addition a bonus of 16,000 shares of a par value of $1,600,000. Further questioning developed the fact that the Southern Pacific in the past year sold this stock to the American Express company and the money they obtained for it, together with the dividends the railroad has drawn, has amounted to $16,000,000.

Mr. Lyon stated that this gave the railroad company since 1893 60 per cent of the express company's receipts on its lines.

No Evidence of Premeditation.

Kokomo, Ind., March 1.—The Howard county grand jury has reported a true bill against Ross Wolf, who entered a cigar store here and without a word of warning, shot and killed Mack Thomas. The indictment charges murder in the second degree and manslaughter. It was generally believed Wolf would be indicted for first degree murder, but the grand jury was unable to obtain any evidence showing the

HELPFUL HINTS ON HAIR HEALTH.

Scalp and Hair Troubles Generally Caused by Carelessness.

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe which also produces baldness. Never use a comb or brush belonging to someone else. No matter how cleanly the owner may be, those articles may be infected with microbes, which will infect your scalp. It is far easier to catch hair microbes than to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush may well lead to baldness. Never try on anybody else's hat. Many a hat-band is a resting place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we believe will completely relieve these troubles. We are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that it will cost you nothing for the trial if it does not produce the results we claim. This remedy is called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We honestly believe it to be the most scientific remedy for scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness, because of the results it has produced in thousands of cases.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is devised to banish dandruff, restore natural color when its loss has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, destroys the germ matter and brings about a free, healthy circulation of blood, which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to tighten and grow more hair. We want everybody who has had any trouble with hair or scalp to know that we think that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existence, and no one should scoff at or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a fair test, with the understanding that they pay us nothing for the remedy if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Seymour only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Andrews Drug Co.

MANY WERE SLAIN

When Federal Troops and Mexican Rebels Met at Horse Shoe Hill.

Mexico City, March 1.—A hard battle was fought at the base of Horse Shoe hill, near Cuernavaca. The rebels, believing that the federal troops were resting, assembled at the base of the hill and began throwing up intrenchments. The troops were hurriedly assembled and the battle began. The artillery did much damage, but the Zapatistas held their own. The rurales under Colonel Garcia charged three times against the rebel intrenchments. They were repulsed twice, but at the last attempt carried the works and dislodged the enemy. The bodies of sixty rebels were found behind the intrenchments. The federal loss was twenty killed.

The small towns of Santa Catalina and Galtita are burning and the men are fleeing to the hills. The women and children are coming to town. There is no news from the north.

A dispatch from Tehuacan, state of Puebla, says a band of volunteers revolted there against the government and ran amuck through the town, killing thirty inhabitants. The rebels made their escape to the mountains, where they intend to join another band.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DISH FROM LEFT-OVERS.

The daily problem of keeping what in a certain allowance and seeing that nothing is wasted is a constant one. When you have a few sweet potato toes left from a meal, slice them, sprinkle with brown sugar and bits of butter and bake in the oven.

Escalloped potatoes prepared from cold boiled potatoes and a little white sauce and onion juice sprinkled with green peas, also a left-over, makes another appetizing dish.

When you have a little strong cream cheese left over, grate it and mix with a beaten white of egg, season with salt, cayenne and pack in the cheese jars or serve on criclets of toast and heat. To be served with tea.

Ginger bread baked in thin sheets, cut in rounds and put together sandwich fashion with cream or cottage cheese make delicious little tea cakes.

When a little pastry is left and one has time to do it, very pretty little baskets may be made by putting the pastry over inverted patty pans and baking. For the handles, twist the pastry in strips and lay around a baking powder can to bake. Fill the baskets with preserves or ices and insert the handles. These make very effective deserts.

If one has a bit of orange marmalade left over, add it to the mince meat.

Cold vegetables of all kinds may be converted into good salads. If there are several varieties, season and pile them in groups with parsley in between. Carrots, green peas and potato toes, a few of each, in this way make a good mixed salad, and one can take the preferred vegetable when being served.

When making a dessert for dinner, like a custard, just do not add the sugar until some of the thickened custard is removed, and that may be flavored with vanilla and sweetened. The rest may be seasoned for salad dressing, the one process doing for both dishes.

SUGAR TO BE PLACED ON THE FREE LIST

If Present Plans of Congress Go Through.

Washington, March 1.—A bill for revision of the sugar schedule which has been drafted by the Democrats of the ways and means committee and which provides for free sugar without any internal revenue tax scheme or any bounties for the sugar planters of the country will be presented to the Democratic caucus tonight by Chairman Underwood. It is contended by the Democrats that the passage of the bill will mean a net saving of 2 cents a pound on sugar to the American consumer.

The ways and means committee reached an agreement on the sugar bill after weeks of arguments and trouble. Representative Francis B. Harrison of New York is credited with having made the motion for free sugar, which finally prevailed by a vote of 9 to 5. Those voting for free sugar, it is understood, were Randall of Texas, Harrison of New York, Kitchin of North Carolina, James of Kentucky, Rainey of Illinois, Dixon of Indiana, Peters of Massachusetts and Palmer of Pennsylvania. Those against were Chairman Underwood, Representative Brantley of Georgia, Hughes of New Jersey, Hull of Tennessee and Hammond of Minnesota.

The present duty on sugar yields $53,000,000 in revenue annually, and to make up the great loss in revenue occasioned by placing sugar on the free list, the caucus will be asked to consider bills to impose duties on raw silk and manufactured products, rubber and laces. The Democrats will make the users of luxuries make up the $53,000,000 loss. Auto tires also may be hit. The duties thus levied, it is estimated, will raise a revenue of approximately $54,000,000 annually.

TAKES HIS CASE INTO THE COURT

Alleged Contract for Sale of Electric Line Disregarded.

THE PURCHASER IS WILLING

But in Complaint Filed in Superior Court at Indianapolis, Boston Man Says the Defendant Owners of the Indianapolis, Newcastle & Toledo Electric Line Refuse to Comply With Terms of Alleged Agreement of Sale.

Indianapolis, March 1.—Asking the court to compel the defendants to carry out a contract which is alleged to have been made between the plaintiff and defendants in regard to the sale of the Indianapolis, Newcastle & Toledo Electric Railway company, which is owned by the defendants, Richard W. Ruffin of Boston has brought suit in superior court against David M. Parry and others.

Ruffin says the owners of the road, David M. Parry, Hattie D. Parry, William E. Stevenson and Margaret W. Stevenson agreed to sell him the road for $900,000 June 15, 1911. The deal was to have been consummated by Feb. 20, 1912, it is alleged, and the plaintiff says he is ready to comply with the agreement made last June, but that the defendants refuse to give him a warranty deed for the property. It is alleged that Ruffin was to assume all the liens and encumbrances on and against the property and that he was to pay to David M. Parry the difference between $900,000 and the total amount of the liens and encumbrances. Ruffin alleges that the defendants have failed and refused to furnish him with a statement of the amount of the liens and encumbrances and that he does not know how much he owes Parry and the others.

Ruffin asks the court to order Parry and the others to carry out the contract and to make them furnish a statement of the claims against the property. He asks that a commissioner be appointed to carry out the sale.

FINALLY GOT IT

Heirs Receive Money Held by State For More Than Twenty Years.

Lafayette, Ind., March 1.—After a legal fight extending over many parts of the United States and Ireland, attorneys have succeeded in getting an order from the circuit court of this county establishing the claim of Joseph McArdle, James Quinn and others to the estate of Anastasia Gunnit, which has been in possession of the state treasury for twenty-two years. The estate consists of $1,000 in money and was paid into the state treasury in 1890 because no heirs could be found. The money was placed to the credit of one Katherine Murphy, who lived in Ireland. She failed to make an appearance and has just been declared legally dead.

The claimants, who are her heirs, filed a petition asking that the money be awarded to them. The court's order will be certified to the auditor of state in Indianapolis, who will direct the state treasury to pay over the money to the heirs. In order to establish the claim it was necessary to take many depositions in different parts of Ireland. Most of the heirs live in Nebraska.
